Agronomy Tip Sheet

As we finish up the corn and soybean harvest for 2024 it is time to start planning for 2025. The first step is to evaluate our 2024 crop. One important area to look at is your seed varieties. Identify the varieties that worked better on your farm this year and any new varieties that you want to try. Varieties that work well on your farm can give you extra bushels of yield and improve your bottom line. Another important area to review is your fertility plan. Do you need new soil samples? Are you getting plenty of nutrients to your crop at the right time. Also, did you split your Nitrogen application on your corn crop? Splitting the nitrogen application can help you get better efficiency out of your nitrogen fertilizer. It also gives you the flexibility to make in season adjustments. Contact your territory sales manager to help you sort through your data and come up with a solid crop plan for 2025!
